THE GREEKS

Each of us, as college students, participate in certain phases of life on the Randolph-Macon campus. The sum of our college experiences add to the production of the well-rounded graduate. But we cannot truly evaluate this variety of experiences for their total worth until we reach the point in life when we can turn back and reflect on how they have influenced our careers.

With this in mind, a number of the truly great, wise, and successful men of our time were requested to evaluate for you those phases of campus life which either they themselves have known or have become authorities on.

Though their messages may be short, the content of each is invaluable. They speak to you as graduates of the school of experience and success. It is sincerely hoped that you enjoy the thoughts they have to share with you.

"A college should be a place of light, of liberty, and of learning."

—Benjamin Disraeli

The backbone of any college is the staff or faculty of instructors. If this is true, Randolph-Macon has just cause to claim a secure strength, as reflected in its efficient, highly intelligent, and progressive group of professors. The brilliant Dr. Bela Schick, discoverer of the Schick inoculation test and still an active medical doctor in his eighty-first year, states what he believes to be the purpose of the educator in today's institutions of higher learning.

To the Student Body
Randolph-Macon College
Ashland, Virginia

The heart of a teaching institution is found in the teaching staff. The success of the college depends upon them. Since a student has only one basic education, it is self evident that it is of the utmost importance that he be well prepared for his future life.

But I believe that the value of a true educator comprises much more than the actual teaching schedule, important as that is. Besides teaching facts, he should teach the student to think for himself. He should stimulate his brain for independent thinking. The teacher who, by example and precept, stimulates his student to value the fine things in life, to dedicate their lives towards making the world a better place to live in, and to have respect for scientists, research workers and educators in general, he is a teacher indeed.

In ancient China, Art and Wisdom were highly valued. The ancient sages were venerated and adored. May the instructors of our institutions of higher learning point the way to a life which will develop inner happiness and peace of mind.

In today's world the college graduate has become an essential part of all phases of life. A supersonic, space-minded world is demanding scientists and technicians; a progressive, intelligent world is demanding doctors, teachers, ministers, and scholars. Dwight D. Eisenhower, President of the United States, here issues the challenge that awaits the fresh, potent trained minds of today's college generation.

THE WHITE HOUSE
WASHINGTON

August 17, 1957

To the Students of Randolph-Macon:

As college students and responsible citizens of America, you are obligated in certain ways to your country:

First -- To be alert and informed citizens, in an age when ignorance or misinformation could bring political catastrophe -- an age when the guarding of our nearest communities may ultimately depend upon our knowledge of the most distant lands and peoples.

Second -- To be tolerant and sensitive citizens -- so that our society may not suffer the moral sickness that is bigotry -- and may clearly perceive the values and the virtues cherished in other societies.

Third -- To be skilled and accomplished citizens -- able to grasp the great levers, turn the giant wheels, of this new atomic age, as --sure finally surrenders to men so many of its colossal secrets.

Fourth -- To be wise and reflective citizens, thankful for the new leisure, promising a new freedom from much toil -- not merely to relax in pleasure but to cultivate the mind and to nourish the spirit. To be wholly educated, in the sense that man is a spiritual and intellectual and physical being. America needs citizens strong in their ideals and spiritual convictions, healthy in their bodies, and tirelessly inquiring in mind.

And finally -- to be bold and courageous citizens, knowing that strength and sacrifice are the indispensable saving weapons of freedom -- and knowing that the frontier in America, that rules so much of our history, has become, in this age, the frontier that is America -- leader of free nations, hope of free men.

"All experience is an arch, to build upon."

—Henry Brooks Adams

Education for the student does not always lie in the textbook or class lecture. The unique college society also offers an opportunity for valuable educational experience by participation in extra-curricular activities. Through each of these activities the individual student has a chance for self-expression, which in turn develops personality and comprehension of social relationships. Virginus Dabney, noted author and editor of the "Richmond Times Dispatch," here expresses an opinion on this phase of college life.

THE AMERICAN SOCIETY OF NEWSPAPER EDITORS

OFFICE OF THE PRESIDENT
 RICHMOND TIMES-DISPATCH
 RICHMOND 11, VIRGINIA

To the Students of Randolph-Macon College:

One of the prime reasons for attending college is to make friends and, in the process, to learn more about human nature. Another important objective is to take part in extra-curricular campus activities, and thereby to develop one's capacity for leadership.

The young man who goes to college for the sole purpose of learning from books misses many of the benefits which he ought to derive from attendance at an institution of higher learning. The importance and desirability of high grades should never be minimized, but vital as such grades are, they are not everything.

I happen to serve on several committees which are charged with the duty of awarding important scholarships to students in our colleges and universities. Every one of these committees regards high grades as a prerequisite, but in every case the young man who has high grades and nothing else is passed by for the applicant who has revealed a well-rounded personality. Scholastic ability plus leadership, character and achievement in athletics, journalism or other campus activities characterize the student who is likely to succeed in after life.

The 1958 Yellow Jacket

M. THOMAS INGE
Editor
THOMAS B. JONES
Business Manager

The theme of every yearbook invariably has to concern the college and the various institutions which compose it as a whole. Recognizing this fact, the theme of the 1958 edition is no different, but we believe the manner of presentation to be unique.

There are many aspects to be considered and jobs to be filled in the production of an annual, and this year's staff, though not exceptionally large, has been composed of willing people, anxious to do a good job. These people know who they are and the reward of satisfaction with a job well done is theirs. Thanks are due also to those who filled in on the smaller jobs.

If this book offers you any happy memories to cherish in the future, or affords you diversion for a little while in the present, it has been a success.

Yellow Jacket Weekly

The "Yellow Jacket Weekly" is the campus newspaper published twenty-four times during the school year. The paper is edited by the students of Randolph-Macon College under the supervision of the Board of Publications. It is a member of the Associated Collegiate Press.

The paper specializes in campus news of interest, with occasional coverage of issues on the state and national levels. Its format also includes features, special columns, a reader's forum and personality sketches.

During the past year the "Yellow Jacket Weekly" has reached a new high in journalism excellence due to the capable editorship of Lewis Morgan and an impressive sports staff under Bill Simpson. In maintaining its policy of being a paper by and for the students, the paper has achieved well earned recognition.

President

The Student Government, which was modeled after the democratic form of government, occupies a powerful and responsible position on the campus of Randolph-Macon College. It was inaugurated in order to preserve a certain amount of freedom, which is desired by all students, and can attain this end only if each student lives by the Constitution upon which the Student Government is built. Just as a chain is only as strong as its weakest link, so is the Student Government only as strong as its weakest member. Thus, if each student will take the opportunity, accept his responsibility, the Student Government will achieve its purpose.

Our Student Government is composed of three main offices: the Executive Committee, consisting of a President, Vice-President, and Secretary-Treasurer; the Student Deans, formed by the four class presidents; and the Judicial Council, comprised of seven upperclassmen, appointed by the President of the Student Government.

These representative groups of students function to maintain the principles of the Honor Code and promote good relations among the administration, faculty, and student body.

Student Government

Below: William M. Cole, Secretary-Treasurer

Judicial Council

All of the trials concerning a breach of the Honor Code are conducted by the Judicial Council. This Council is composed of three juniors, who are appointed yearly by the President of the Student Government to serve for two years, and a member-at-large who is elected yearly from either the Sophomore, Junior, or Senior Classes. A decision is rendered by the Council on each case which is final unless the case is appealed to the Board of Review.

Student Deans

The president of each of the four classes compose the student council which acts as the intermediary between the Student Government and the students. Although these deans serve as advisors to the President of the College and as the central governing body of the Student Government, their main purpose is to investigate any infraction of the honor code and to bring these charges before the Judicial Council.

Board of Review

Four members of the faculty appointed by the President of the College and four members of the Student Body appointed by the President of the Student Government serve on the Board of Review. Whenever a decision of the Judicial Council is appealed, the power to revoke or reconcile this decision lies in the hands of the Board of Review.

Board For the Disbursement of Student Activities Fund

In 1932 the Board for the Disbursement of Student Activities Funds was set up for the purpose of allotting funds to the various publications and extra-curricular organizations to pay the expenses for the year's activities. In addition to this, the board also appoints editors and business managers to the publications. This board is composed of three students elected by the student government and three faculty members appointed by the President of the college.

Social Activities Committee

The social calendar for the school year is prepared and supervised by a student-faculty group, the Social Activities Committee. Four members of the faculty, appointed by the college President, and four members of the student body, elected through the student government, serve on this committee.

Advisory Council

The United Student Advisory Council is composed of two representatives from each fraternity, the Independents, the student Government and the administration, and is presided over by the president of the student Government. The purpose of this council is to provide a committee to which problems may be brought from every organization, thereby giving each student the right to speak through his representative.

The council was introduced last spring by Bob Duncan, before his election to president of the student government, in order to create more interest in student government and draw more students into its functions.

Seated: Cross, Sikkelee, and Cole. Standing: Leigh, Armstrong, Moore, Wine, White and Christie.

Who's Who

Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities is an honor given to those seniors who in the opinion of the administration have shown outstanding ability in their academic and extra-curricular affairs, in addition to possessing outstanding character.

Fish Tails

The "Fish Tales" is one of the four college publications and is written especially for each new year's freshman class. The handbook is edited by students under the supervision of the Board of Publications. "Fish Tales" provides a catalogue of the college organizations, constitution, activities, and other general information which is necessary to better orientate the freshman to college life.

Extra-Curricular Council

The Extra-Curricular Council, which was organized in 1956, is composed of the presidents of the seven social fraternities and the Independents' Organization. These organizations compete through the year in the following fields: scholarship, Student Government, social and religious affairs, athletics (Varsity), speech, music, publications, and dramatic arts. The organization which earns the most points throughout the year is awarded a silver cup which they are entitled to keep for one year.

WAVA

Kneeling: Farmer, Hodges, and Christie, Standing: Franklin, Leonard, Dillingham, Moore, Campbell and Asher.

The Randolph-Macon College radio station came on the air in the fall of 1956. The station was called Campus Radio until the fall of 1957 when the Federal Communications Commission granted the call letters, WAVA. The call letters stand for Ashland, Virginia.

The purpose of WAVA is to present the best in music, news, sports, and special programs to the students of the college. WAVA also encourages faculty participation by having them present programs of their hobbies, talents, and field of interests.

This year WAVA broadcasted several away athletic events. Plans are being made to continue these broadcasts as a service to Randolph-Macon sports fans.

WAVA is an extra-curricular organization with emphasis on education and entertainment, and it can be a training ground for students interested in radio as a profession.

Kern Center Council

The Kern Center Council is composed of representatives from the various religious organizations, the student body, and the administration. The Kern Center Council plans and coordinates the religious activities of Randolph-Macon College. The council assists the Chaplain and the Director of Religious Activities in an advisory capacity in providing programs of a religious nature for the college community.

Seated: Morse, Hogg and Childress. First row: Christie, Moore, Gravelly, Cole, and Ingo. Second row: Beauchamp, Cockerell, Tucker, Campbell, and McDonald.

Canterbury Club

The Canterbury Club consists of those Randolph-Macon students who belong to the Protestant Episcopal Church. The Canterbury Club, which was founded at Randolph-Macon in 1948, meets each Sunday at the rectory of Saint James the Less Church.

Newman Club

The Newman Club is a religious organization for the Roman Catholic students in the college community. The Newman Club works closely with St. Anne's Catholic Church in Ashland in providing fellowship and programs designed for their interests.

The Clericus

The Clericus is for those Christian pre-ministerial students who desire to gain experience in the field of ministry while they are still in their undergraduate years, and to provide them with meaningful programs. The Clericus has prominent speakers once every two weeks to speak at their meetings. The Clericus awards a scholarship each year to that student who is most deserving on the Randolph-Macon campus.

Student Fellowship

The Student Fellowship is an interdenominational religious group of Randolph-Macon students who meet each Sunday evening for dinner and religious worship. The Student Fellowship, as a part of the Kern Center program, seeks to encourage group worship and Christian endeavors.

Washington Literary Society

The Washington Literary Society is for those students interested in literature and forensics. This year, 1957-1958, "Wash Hall" celebrated its one hundred and twenty-fifth anniversary by presenting several special programs. Ever since 1833, the year of its founding, the Washington Literary Society has been contributing, in a large way, to the growth of literary interests on our campus.

First row: Cole, Rowe, Haley, Kesler, and Cummings. Second row: Kastler, Lightner, Righter and Jones. Third row: Inge, Nelson, Newsom, and Cummings.

Glee Club

The Randolph-Macon Glee Club, established in 1898, is one of the oldest and finest singing groups in the East. The club gives excellent training to those students interested in developing their singing ability.

The Independents

The Independents' Organization is a club for non-fraternity men who desire social activity and a voice in campus politics. The Independents have their own charter and a very active membership, many who have contributed much to campus activities. The Independents, as a relatively new organization on campus, have also been keen competitors in the intramural program.

Circle "K" Club

The Circle "K" Club is a service organization which aids the college community in many of its functions. Circle "K" is the college level of the Kiwanis Club and high school Key Club. It encourages group participation, good scholarship and a will to serve. This year the club was instrumental in helping the administration with Homecoming and Alumni Days. Membership to this organization is by invitation.

Randolph-Macon Players

The Randolph-Macon Players encourages interest in dramatics on the campus by presenting two plays each year, and by discussions on play presentation. The Players, under the direction of Professor Jon D. Longaker, contributes much to the extra-curricular activities on campus, and presents those with acting ability an opportunity to develop it. In order for a student to join the Players, he must have had some experience with one of their productions.

Omicron Delta Kappa, founded at Washington and Lee University, is a national honorary fraternity for those men who have shown outstanding leadership ability. The society taps its members each semester from the junior and senior classes. In order to be eligible for membership a student must have attained prominence in one and excellence in two of five fields of endeavor: scholarship; athletics; social and religious affairs; publications; and speech, music, and dramatics.

"... a living proof to all the world of faith in brotherhood."

—Guy Willis Biland

The college is a miniature social world in which the young man must develop character, initiative, and a well rounded personality. The most valuable institution to further these responsibilities of college is the social fraternity. Since the Union Triad of 1825, the progenitors of the modern college Greeks, the fraternity has continued to perform these duties and will continue to do so as long as the college recognizes the intrinsic worth of such an organization. Ernest R. Breech, Chairman of the Board of the Ford Motor Company, also a brother of Lambda Chi Alpha, describes what his fraternity experience meant to him.

ERNEST R. BREECH
CHAIRMAN

THE AMERICAN ROAD
DEARBORN, MICHIGAN

Greetings to the student body of Randolph-Macon College:

Of all the many activities, interests and institutions of campus life, none is more controversial or more passionately debated than the social fraternity.

My own fraternity gave me warm and lasting friendships and many pleasant memories. Beyond that, it gave me an added sense of moral responsibility and of the obligation of human brotherhood.

The fraternity becomes a bad influence only when those who belong to it forget its underlying purpose -- when the true sense of the word "fraternity" is ignored and the society becomes discriminatory, rather than properly discriminating. In the exclusiveness that is implicit in fraternity life lies danger of social caste systems based on superficial superiorities that may cruelly penalize those who for financial or other reasons are not fraternity members.

It is a basic principle of the fraternal ideal that such unfortunate distinctions of caste and snobbery are not to be tolerated or accepted as the natural order of things.

In the long run, the fraternity will thrive only so far as it contributes some lasting value to our campus and later life. I suggest that a primary role of the fraternity should be to encourage us all, as individuals and as a nation, to accept and act upon the idea of fraternity in its best and broadest sense. Our experience with fraternity at the college level ideally should be a training in the practical day-to-day workings of brotherhood.

If it is that, then by all means it should and will also be an experience of good fellowship, good times, and happy memories.

Sincerely,

ERB:wf

Pan-Hellenic Council

The purpose of this inter-fraternity organization is to formulate and enforce a uniform policy in regards to the relationship of the fraternities to each other and to the college as a whole. Its membership is made up of the representatives of the seven fraternities.

Each year, under the sponsorship of the council, the gala Pan-Hellenic dances are produced. In this year of 1957-58, the Pan-Hellenic Council obtained Ralph Marterie and his Orchestra to play for the dance week end, the theme being "Midnight In Paris."

Dear Students:

Thank you for the honor and the opportunity to be included in your yearbook.

As a professional athlete I know the value of sports participation during the school years. High school athletics proved to be an excellent preparation in my own case.

The physical effort and concentration required during active athletic competition sharpens the reflexes, alerts the mind and develops the body. In addition, the participant learns the value of teamwork and sportsmanship. Certainly the student who has concentrated on his studies, conditioned his body through athletic activity, and learned to cooperate with others will make a fine citizen.

I send you my best wishes for a successful future.

Varsity Club

DAVID BRUCE YOUNG
President

The Varsity Club at Randolph-Macon attempts to create a participating interest for all sports in the students at Randolph-Macon. Those boys who are not participating in any sport are urged to take part in some athletic endeavor, whether it be football, track, tennis, cheerleading, or just being a loyal Jacket fan at all home athletic contests.

Other projects of the club include the initiating of new freshmen (Fish) into the routine of college life at Randolph-Macon, sponsoring two dances during the football season, and selling programs at all home football games.

Each year the Varsity Club members receive their choice of either a R-M jacket, a blanket, or a letter sweater, which is given by the club from the funds gained from the two dances and program sales. Also, the seniors in the club receive a gold key signifying membership in the Randolph-Macon Varsity Club.

In order to become a member of the Varsity Club, a boy must receive one letter in any one of the four major sports—football, basketball, baseball or track—or two letters in any of the minor sports such as tennis, soccer, cross country and swimming.

Cheerleaders

One of the most difficult and thankless tasks in the area of extra-curricular activities at this college is that of the cheerleader. All too often he is not appreciated and even at times taken for granted in spite of the fact that it takes a certain amount of skill to lead a crowd in enthusiastic support of the team.

Unfortunately for the cheerleader, he frequently finds himself being sandwiched in from two sides during a football game. If the game is unusually interesting, he may forget about the crowd momentarily and concentrate on watching the play, and it will surely not be long before he is abruptly reminded of his job with a growl from the stands.

Nevertheless, this year's crop of cheerleaders has done a commendable job even though the staff has been reduced to three members by the last game. When rain in the early part of the game had thinned the ranks of the Jacket supporters considerably, three white-sweated cheerleaders were in front of the stands trying to squeeze whatever response possible from the water-soaked crowd.

Football

Although not outstanding in its record, the year 1957 proved to be an exciting and eventful one for Jacket football players and fans alike. Highlights of the season were the choosing of guard and captain Dave Young by the Associated Press for the Little All-American team, the exciting Homecoming contest between Randolph-Macon and Hampden-Sydney played before 4000 fans, and the somewhat sad acceptance of Coach Paul Severin's resignation in order that he might devote full time to his career with an insurance company.

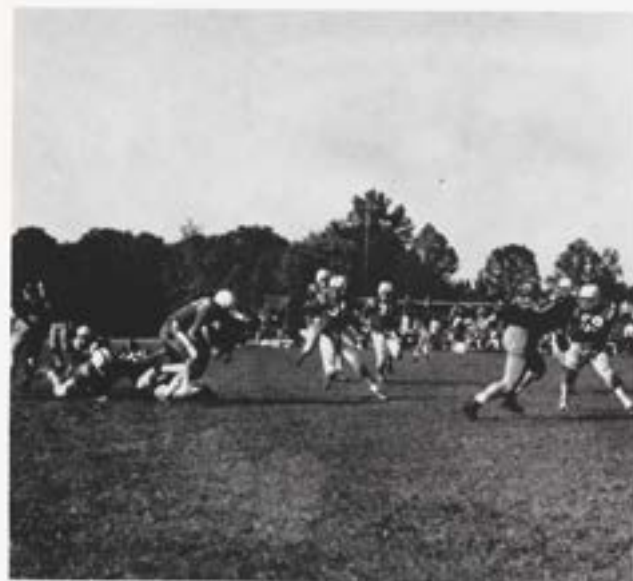

It was sad indeed, to lose as fine a gentleman and coach as Mr. Severin. His value to Randolph-Macon has been tremendous; but Jacket players and fans alike should feel very happy that Severin will have as his successor the line coach for the past seven seasons, Joe McCutcheon. Young coaches of the caliber of Mr. McCutcheon come few and far between. Randolph-Macon is fortunate in having him as its mentor. Ted Keller moved into the position McCutcheon vacated.

The season was much better than the final record of 3 wins, 3 losses, and 2 ties might appear, as the Jackets were in the running for the Mason Dixon Conference and Little Eight Championships up until the last two games when they bowed to Hampden-Sydney and Emory and Henry.

Entering the game with Hampden-Sydney as a seven point underdog, the Yellow Jackets out-played the undefeated Tigers for three periods before a fourth quarter rally enabled Bob Thalman's team to take a 26-19 victory. The outstanding play of Captain Young, Bill Cox, Bunkie Keeton, Sig Howerton, and especially the defensive play of John Llewellyn, enabled Randolph-Macon to take a 13-7 half-time lead. However a poor punt at the beginning of the second half and the passing of Hampden-Sydney's quarterback Bobby Furr aided the Tigers in finishing strong in the final period for the victory.

In the final game of the season, against the Wasps of Emory and Henry, the Jackets did not have the necessary drive as the Wasps rolled to an easy victory.

In other games, the Jackets opened their season by being crushed 40-0 by a much stronger University of Richmond team. This was the last game, however, in a series dating back over fifty years. Randolph-

Macon Athletic Director Hugh Stephens announced that the series would be terminated in 1958 due to differences in athletic policies of the two schools. Following a tie at Western Maryland, paced by the tremendous running of fullback Bob Rayner and the passing of Sig Howerton, the Jackets rolled to successive wins over Apprentice School, Bridgewater, and Washington and Lee. In the four contests, Rayner averaged well over 80 yards rushing per game. Against Johns Hopkins, both teams were hampered by mud and unsure footing, as the Severinmen battled to a 0-0 deadlock, sending them into the Hampden-Sydney game with a 3-1-2 record.

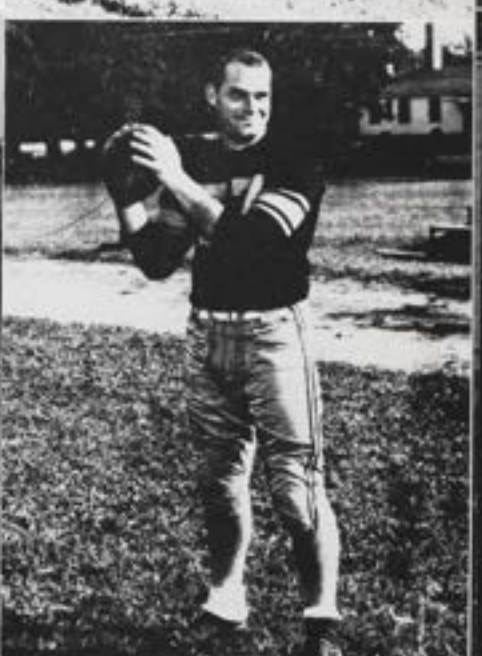

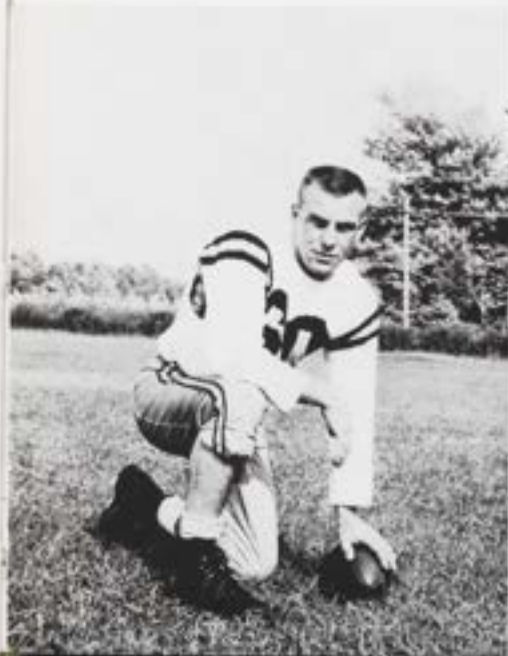

Besides Young, whose honors speak well enough for his performances, the play of Rayner and Howerton was impressive. The Junior fullback and quarterback were chosen as co-captains for the 1958 season. In the line McCutcheon has a real job in filling posts vacated by Seniors Cox, Llewellyn, Keeton, Gravely, Joyner, and Young. Switching from center to tackle, Cox came along at the end of the season becoming one of the best linemen in the area, and being named to the All-Little Eight Team. Likewise, the play of Llewellyn and Keeton, playing their first seasons at center and end respectively, and Jim Gravely was outstanding all season.

Sophomores Garnette and Cole with freshman Ward showed excellent potential for the future Randolph-Macon gridiron. Jack Vaughn, a junior from Williamsburg, looked good on numerous occasions, especially against Richmond and Hampden-Sydney. In the future, the Randolph-Macon football fans can look forward to some outstanding backfields if the 1957 season can be used as a measure.

Basketball

The first trip to a Mason-Dixon Conference cage tournament in five years, the first winning season in eleven years, and the best season percentagewise in twenty years—this is the contribution of the 1957-58 Randolph-Macon College basketball team and head coach Paul Webb.

Compiling a regular season mark of 13 wins in 21 games, and 9 in 13 loop encounters, the '57-'8 Jackets placed four starters—freshman Billy Robinson (15.1), senior co-captain Ken Joyner (14.2), freshman Carl Koenig (13.6) and soph Jerry Suyes (10.7) in double figures. The team's fifth regular, soph Frank Wawner tallied 174 points and snatched 306 rebounds in 22 games.

Randolph-Macon hit better than 39 per cent of its field goal attempts during the past season. When the squad's balance and spirit were combined with a snappy shooting performance from the floor, the results were often quite pleasant to Jacket fans. Such a thrill was February 14's 69-50 win over Roanoke College, a jinx of long-standing.

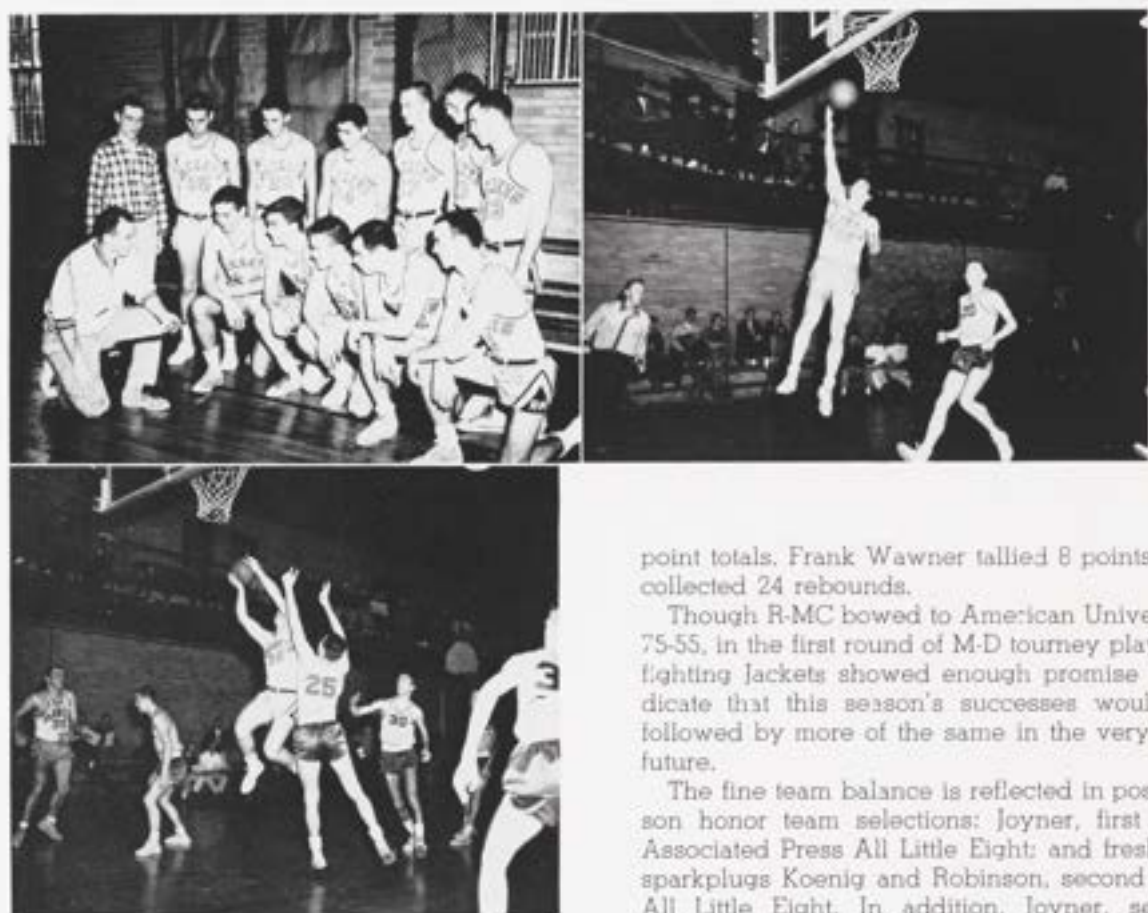

Against the Maroons, the Ashlanders canned 48.3 per cent of their shots, and placed four men, Billy Robinson (20), Ken Joyner (15), Carl Koenig (15), and Jerry Suyes (11) in double point totals, Frank Wawner tallied 8 points, and collected 24 rebounds.

Though R-MC bowed to American University, 75-55, in the first round of M-D tourney play, the fighting Jackets showed enough promise to indicate that this season's successes would be followed by more of the same in the very near future.

The fine team balance is reflected in post-season honor team selections: Joyner, first team Associated Press All Little Eight; and freshmen sparkplugs Koenig and Robinson, second team All Little Eight. In addition, Joyner, second highest scorer in R-MC hardwood history, was runner-up for the second consecutive season in the "Most Valuable Player in the Little Eight" race. Wawner, for his talented work in the backboards, was chosen captain-elect of the 1958-59 Jacket quint.

Baseball

It's a lucky thing baseball doesn't come but once a year, because if it came any more often, Randolph-Macon College coach Hugh Stephens would be a nervous wreck. Year in, year out, the Jacket pilot weeps and moans about prospects for a dark, gloomy season to come, and each year his team runs up an imposing won-lost record. In its "hopeless" pre-season forecast, the 1958 R-MC diamond season was no different.

Not that the Jacket skipper was quite ready to throw in the crying towel, stitches and all. Stephens had ten lettermen back from last season's Southern Division runners-up to help ease his sorrows. Casualties, though few, however, were costly. Gone were ace pitchers Lew Brandt (5-3; 1.13 ERA), Dave Boyd (3-2; 1.63 ERA), and third baseman Phil Coppage (.291).

Junior catcher and team captain Don Colley (.316) and a trio of heavy-hitting outfielders, Bunkie Keeton (.415), Marshall Hughes (.377), and Bill Cox (.313) would provide the brighter side of any coach's work. Together with Colley, soph Norman Jenkins and freshman Don Post made the backstopping outlook unusually solid.

Virtually the same infield that proved leaky in spots last year was one of Stephens' biggest problems this season, too. Junior Tom Jones (.362) returned to hold down first base. The remainder of the infield, however, was not so set. Junior Bill Smith (.353) and freshman Chick Crawford offered a formidable duo at second. Utility infielder John Hogge (.182) appeared to have the jump over senior Hunter Bowles and rookie John Bagby at the hot spot. Shortstop was manned by freshman Bob Goulder, a converted third baseman, and soph Billy Garnett.

The pitching staff appeared shallow, too, unless new men Jimmy Smith, a senior, and Mac Felts, a freshman, came through. Both showed up well in early-season scrimmages. They joined monogram-winners Walt Barr (3-1; 2.87 ERA) and Cig Howerton (1-0; 3.76 ERA) to comprise the bulk of the Jacket mound staff. Junior Bob Royster and freshman Ron Simonsen figured to lend spot aid to this quartet.

Things have looked dark before for the Hugh Stephens-coached nines. But with 120 wins in 160 games—three Mason-Dixon and six Little Eight titles—since 1950, everything seems to indicate that the "darkness" won't last too long.

Track

A win over American University preserved the dignity of the 1957 Yellow Jacket trackmen who were beaten five times; but eight lettermen, including one of the more outstanding hurdlers in the Mason-Dixon Conference, will be returning to lead the 1958 squad.

Co-captains for the 1958 season are pole vaulter Jim Gravely and broad jumper Frank Robertson. Jack Armstrong, point leader for the Jackets last year, is already in his usual good form. Coach Paul Webb expects a top performance from Andy Johnson in the shot put, who now holds the school record in this event. Another top performer is miler John Clay, a freshman, who displayed his talents only this fall during the cross-country season.

First row: Rodenhiser, Clay, Betts, Cantwell, Byers and Cortes. Second row: Webb, Mahanes, Hutson, Gravely, Robertson, Harlan and Jacobs.

Swimming

The Little Eight swimming crown is now in good hands. The 1957-58 Randolph-Macon College tank team saw to that when it swam away from three rivals to capture the state small college diadem at Roanoke on March 4. In addition, the Jacket natators posted five wins in eight dual meets, and earned a third in the Mason-Dixon Conference meet in Baltimore, March 7-8.

Tri-captains Pete Lau, Al Greenberg, and Jim Athearn spearheaded the Ashlanders' victory drive. Athearn totaled 111½ points in ten overall meets, and in the process grabbed the Little Eight butterfly and breaststroke titles, and the Mason-Dixon breaststroke crown. Lau was Little Eight 60- and 440-yard freestyle champion, and waltzed to a new school mark in claiming Pete Lau, Co-Captain; Joe McCutcheon, Coach; Al Greenberg, Co-Captain; Jim Athearn, Co-Captain.

M-D 440-yard freestyle laurels. The trio of captains also teamed with freshman Chuck Sharman to form the best 400-yard medley relay in the school's swim annals.

Seated: Lewis, Cummings, Lau, Greenberg, Athearn, and Schochat. Standing: Charman, Coleman, Cummings, Kastler, and Cole.

Wayne Adams, Captain.

Tennis

Under the supervision of Coach R. C. Wood and led by Captain Wayne Adams, who was undefeated in conference play last season, the Little-Eight and Mason-Dixon Conference champions are looking forward to another successful year. The absence of three top performers on last's season's championship team may provide a definite disadvantage, however, since the missing men ranked second, third, and fourth.

In addition to Adams, returnees from last year's squad are Frank Emerson and Thada Thienprasshidi who are now ranked second and third. Larry Lambert, Frank Dillingham, and Nickie Nelson are the candidates most likely to fill in the remaining positions on the team.

Soccer

There were several things that made the 1957 soccer season appear brighter than the 0-8 record indicates. For the first year we had a regular field of our own—Blincoe Field—which assured the team of better and more frequent scrimmages. In addition, the freshman class supplied the team with several good players which will serve as a nucleus for better teams in the future. With a larger squad, Coach Moomaw was able to hold better practices and have ready reserves when things got rough.

Led by co-captains Fred Steng and Frank Dillingham, the Jackets put up some good opposition against all opponents, with the best games being against Roanoke and Loyola.

—Frank Emmerson

First row: Abed, Vig, Steng, Dillingham, Heggoy, Farberman, and Emerson. Second row: Coach Moomaw, Berger, Greenberg, Collins, Reilly, Farmer, Johnson, Johnston, Kastler, Jacquelin, Oliver, and Layton.

"... Wisdom . . . by pleasure . . . restores vigor to labor."

Francois Fénelon

It is a regrettable fact that some college students spend too much time on diversion and too little time on studies, but the mature mind learns how to integrate his pleasure and labor so as to gain the best advantages from each. The college dance, the bull session, the party, the dormitory hi-jinks, when enjoyed with discretion, are invaluable in releasing the strains caused by the pressures of school work, thus enabling the student to renew his labors more vigorously. Bob Hope, the incomparable comedian of stage, screen, radio, and television, and a master at entertainment, has a few ideas on the place of pleasure in our lives.

Dear Students of Randolph-Macon College:

This is to thank you for including me in the 1958 edition of the YELLOW JACKET ANNUAL. I am honored to introduce the features section of your yearbook.

Entertainment is my business, a happy business. I believe in the therapeutic value of a hearty laugh, a good show and the various other forms of entertainment that promote relaxation from the strains and tensions of our modern mode of life.

I congratulate you that you have recognized the value of entertainment as a part of your college life.

Good luck.

Sincerely,

Bob Hope
